Little Wranglers enjoyed summer program

PINEDALE – The Pinedale Aquatic Center’s 2021 Little Wrangler Day Camp hosted 96 total campers from 61 different households this summer.

An ongoing partnership with Sublette BOCES funded a variety of activities like social emotional lessons, art and dance instruction, plus the purchase of STEAM supplies. Visiting artist and musician Paul Taylor brought his interactive presentations on Aboriginal culture and together the group made didgeridoos. BOCES and the Pinedale Fine Arts Council teamed to bring the Burton Riglet Skate and Snow program to teach campers how to ride snowboards with instructors from Jackson Hole Mountain Resort, which was followed by the chance for campers to decorate their own skateboards with artist Haley Badenhop.

More information on BOCES programs can be found at www.subletteboces.com.

Hospital District announces contest to name facility

SUBLETTE COUNTY – The Sublette County Hospital District announced a new naming competition while it awaits a decision from the USDA regarding its loan for a critical access hospital.

Employees from both the Hospital District and Sublette Center were asked to submit suggestions for what the new hospital should be named. The Joint Planning Committee, consisting of Hospital District and Sublette Center board members, suggested four options.

The four names suggested were: Sublette County Health, Mountainside Health, Sublette County Wellness Complex and Mountain Air Healthcare.

The public is now invited to vote on their favorite name.

“This is a truly historic moment for Sublette County,” Kari DeWitt, public relations director for the Hospital District, said. “We hope the public will have fun being a part of the process naming this facility.”

Those interested can vote by going to www.surveymonkey.com/r/PDS7H7D.

Hospital District board member Dave Bell has donated a large photography print for the employee who suggested the winning name.

PFAC opens new season with unique show

PINEDALE – The Pinedale Fine Arts Council starts its 2021-22 season by presenting Collision of Rhythm in Sheppard Auditorium on Tuesday, Oct. 5, at 7 p.m.

Collision of Rhythm is a duo comprised of a tap-dancing classical virtuoso, Aaron Williams, and beatbox-juggling keynote speaker Bronkar Lee. They move from instrument to instrument across the stage for a show that has been described as “Stomp meets Blue Man meets Cirque du Soleil.”

Tickets for Collision of Rhythm are available online at pinedalefinearts.com. They’re also available locally at Pine Coffee Supply, The Cowboy Shop, Office Outlets, the Big Piney Library and at the door on the night of the performance. Tickets are $20 for adults and $7 for students. There’s an extra $2 charge for tickets at the door.

More information available at www.pinedalefinearts.com or by calling 307-367-7322.

SAFV receives grant from United Way

SUBLETTE COUNTY – The SAFV Task Force of Sublette County was recently awarded a $2,500 grant from Southwest Wyoming United Way to help support programming for individuals affected by domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking.

SAFV thanks the United Way and all companies and employees for their continued support and investment in helping Sublette County residents.

For more information on SAFV and its support of those affected by domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking, as well as the prevention of those crimes, call 307-367-6305 or 307-276-3975.
